Peter H. Clark in a few appropriate remarks.

Preparatory to the discussion of his subject, the speaker submitted a few statistics, disproving the idea that the colored race of America was dying out. He said that in 1790 the white population was 3,172,006; colored, 757,208; in 1840, white, 14,195,806; colored, 2,873,648; in 1870, white, 26,992,537; colored, 4,441,830; in 1870, white, 33,589,377; colored 4,880,009.

Colored criminals 8,066

With these statistics as a basis, the speaker claimed that the morality of the negro was as great as that of the native born whites, and greater than that of the masses of immigrated foreigners.

By another tabular arrangements of blind, deaf, dumb, insane and idiotic persons, he showed that the negroes were fewer, except in the one instance of blindness, from these afflictions than their white brethren.

The last census showed Si, 164 colored militia between the ages of 18 and 45, and 1,032,475 votes, constituting a majority in Louislana, Mississippi, Florida, and South Carolina; holding the balance of power in North Carolina, Georgia, and Arkansas, and in closely contested cases in Missouri, Virginia, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, and Indiana.

After enlarging upon the qualities of the colored man as a voter, the speaker con-cluded his address by offering a strong cluded his address by offering a strong plea for the Republican party, urging every colored man and every friend of the colored man to vote the Republican ticket, declaring it as his belief that a Republican majority of 25,000 or 30,000 votes in the State of Ohio this fall would save thousands of colored lives in the
